WHO WE ARE

The Masonry Society (TMS) is the premier professional, technical, and educational society dedicated to the advancement of knowledge of masonry. We develop standards for masonry referenced in the International Building Code, publish technical design and construction information, and educate on proper use of masonry. TMS committees develop technical publications including the Masonry Designers' Guide, coordinate the TMS Disaster Investigation Team, and provide educational opportunities through seminars, Masonry Educators' Workshops (MEW), annual meetings, and the North American Masonry Conference. Members discuss and debate all aspects of masonry. The resulting information is disseminated to provide guidance to the masonry and technical communities on various aspects of masonry design, construction, evaluation, and repair.
